

University of Nicosia Medical School

University of Nicosia Medical School pathway

Kings is partnered with the largest university in Cyprus, the University of Nicosia, to offer a pathway to Medicine.

The University of Nicosia Medical School

This was the first medical school in Cyprus and was established in 2011 through a partnership with St George's University of London where the school offered the graduate-entry MBBS.

Building on the experiences with the MBBS, the University of Nicosia Medical School is now offering a 6-Year MD programme designed for high school leavers, an MSc in Family Medicine for practicing primary care physicians, a Master of Public Health (MPH) and a Master of Science in Health Services Administration (MHSA) for both working professionals and new graduates and a PhD in Medical Sciences, for research in all disciplines or specialties of Medicine.

Key features

- EU accredited medical degree allowing medical practice pathways worldwide
- Listed in the World Directory of Medical Schools
- Diverse student body from over 80 countries
- High-end accommodation
- Robust supporting mechanisms such as dedicated tutors, careers advice and Student Success team